

On Call Archaeologist / Field Director

Archaeology & Historic Resource Services, LLC (AHRs) is currently seeking an on-call Archaeologist/Field Director with a Master's degree in Anthropology/Archaeology. The Archaeologist/Field Director will be part of a growing team of AHRs cultural resource professionals. The plan is for the successful candidate to develop into a full time Field Director/Principal Investigator. We are seeking someone looking for a long-term opportunity not just a job. The Archaeologist/Field Director may be responsible for completing research, fieldwork, laboratory work and report writing on various types of projects.

Responsibilities:

- Conducting research and site visits
- Performing fieldwork and artifact analysis on Phase I, II, III and monitoring projects
- Prepare technical reports

Qualifications and Skills:

- Master's Degree in Anthropology/Archaeology or a closely related field
- At least 3-5 years of field experience
- At least 2-3 years directing field crews and monitoring
- Familiarity with NHPA, ARPA, NAGPRA, and NY/NJ/Penn cultural resource compliance laws
- Able to maintain effective working relationships with AHRs staff, client, and regulatory agency staff
- Excellent analytical skills and attention to detail
- Ability to conduct fieldwork, with frequent overnight stays, and in inclement weather
- Previous experience working with ArcGIS and various GPS units preferred
- Previous experience completing archaeological projects for various state DOT agencies preferred
- Field experience in the northeastern United States is preferred
- Have a valid Driver's License and personal vehicle is a must for traveling to and from project sites
- Must be able to commute daily to Northern New Jersey & New York City

To apply for this position, please send a resume, at least two references, and cover letter to: tina.brown@ahrservices.com. No calls please.
